

RODA - Support # 26: request: better install instructions for LDAP + libpam-ldap

Status:	New	Priority:	Normal
Author:	Nicholas del Pozo	Category:
Created:	08/27/2009	Assigned to:
Updated:	09/01/2009	Due date:
Subject:	request: better install instructions for LDAP + libpam-ldap
Description:	Both these require a lot of options to be set-up. I understand that somebody with more knowledge in these areas wouldn't find it a problem, but it would good to have some 'default' values to enter recorded in the install documentation.

History

---

09/01/2009 02:08 PM - Luís Faria

Nicholas del Pozo wrote:

> Both these require a lot of options to be set-up. I understand that somebody with more knowledge in these areas wouldn't find it a problem, but it would good to have some 'default' values to enter recorded in the install documentation.

Unfortunately working with OpenLdap is always quite onerous. Furthermore, the installation specifics change between different versions of Ubuntu and OpenLdap. So an automatic installation script is very difficult to maintain before the structure of LDAP in Ubuntu becomes stable.

Nevertheless, we would like input or suggestions in how to simplify the installation of this component.